

Journal Contributions

Contributions to EarthSong are welcome but will always be subject to the discretion of the Editorial Committee. Both new and established voices are encouraged and whilst original work is preferred reprints will occasionally be accepted.

- authors should write in a conversational tone for a general audience. We seek a variety of material: essays, personal narratives, reports, poetry, photography and art work. Preference will usually be given to contributions with an Australian focus.
- articles will usually be no longer than 2,000 words and a number of shorter articles will be included in each edition.
- where appropriate an accepted referencing style should be used. Endnotes are preferable to footnotes.
- manuscripts should be typed, double spaced and submitted as Microsoft Word documents by email to anne@earthsong.org.au or on cd posted to The Editor, EarthSong, PO Box 851 Parkville, Vic 3052.
- illustrative material to enhance articles is encouraged. Colour photographs should be high resolution files (300 dpi minimum) and submitted either on CD, USB or as photograph prints (8cm x 12 cm)
- the deadline for each edition is three months prior to publication.
- EarthSong takes all care and no responsibility to material submitted.
- the copyright for individual contributions remains with the author or artist and the opinions of contributors to this publication are not necessarily endorsed by the publishers.
- EarthSong will provide all published authors and artists with a one year subscription and two additional copies of the issue in which their work appears.

Submissions and queries should be directed to
